Young Girl Killed In Accident

Eight Injured In Two-Car Collision

by Adoree Shortle
Echo staff writer

A 10-year-old girl was killed and eight injured in a two-car collision Wednesday on Highway 90 and the Bay Bridge. The accident occurred about 3:45 p.m. when a 1965 Chevrolet, driven by Mrs. Mary Kay Jones, and a 1968 Cadillac, driven by Donald B. Hanks, collided violently at the intersection of the highway and the bridge approach. Blvd. was struck broadside by the Cadillac coming off the bridge in a westerly direction. The 10-year-old child, Cindy Jones, was riding in the front seat of the Chevrolet and was apparently killed when the car slammed head-on into a board fence on the highway service road. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Hancock General Hospital.

riding in the front seat of the Cadillac and all sustained broken kneecaps, as well as head and face injuries and multiple contusions of the legs and body, according to a hospital spokesman.

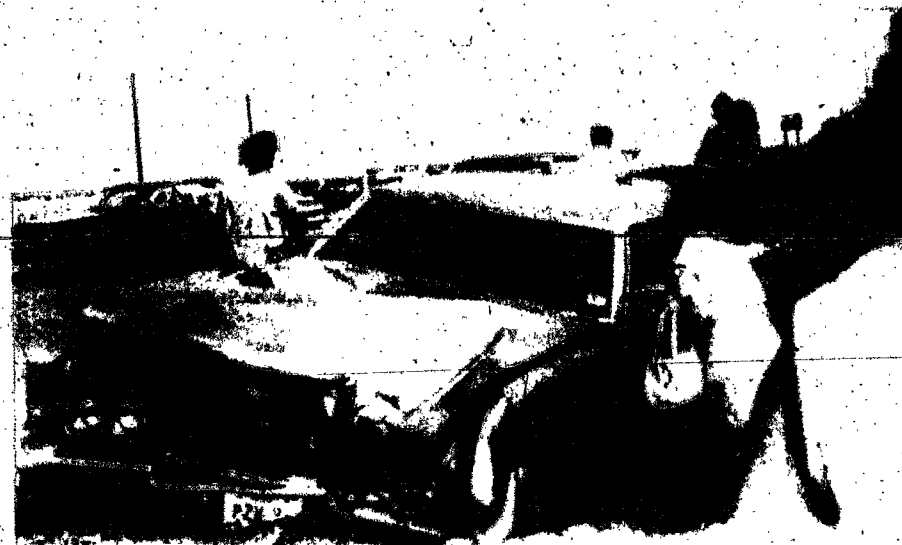

The Hanks' two children, Darlene, 13, and Donny, 4, with a friend, Cindy Price, 12, were passengers in the back seat. At the hospital, the three children were treated for bruises and minor cuts of the face and legs and released.

Highway Safety Patrolman James Woodfin was investigating officer and was assisted by Hancock Sheriff Sylvan Ladner, sheriff's deputies and members of the Bay St. Louis fire and police departments.

The Hanks were returning to their home in Houston from a Florida vacation, Darlene said, and were planning to stop in New Orleans Wednesday evening.

Gerald Tomasich of Bay St. Louis crossed the highway just ahead of the Jones car, he said. He stopped his truck when he heard the crash and turned just in time to see the Jones car come to a stop against the fence. Tomasich and other passersby assisted Bay St. Louis firemen and police in prying open the automobile doors and rescuing the trapped occupants.

The Jones have been residents of Bay St. Louis for about a year. He is a land consultant at Diamondhead and was transferred here from Oklahoma.

Planning Commission Presents Hancock Projects

County officials from Hancock, Harrison, Jackson and Pearl River counties attended a dinner meeting Tuesday night of the Gulf Regional Planning Commission, held at the Ramada Inn in Waveland.

Jack Different, GRPC director, told the almost 50 persons attending that in accord with commission format, the entire program was centered around the county in which the meeting was held.

Various members of the GRPC staff discussed studies conducted by their departments of Hancock County in relation to land use, water and sewer systems, certification for federal programs and open space and recreation development.

Volney Cissna discussed regional and local plan elements studies of the county, utilizing high-altitude aerial maps from the Earth Resources Laboratory at MTF. In cooperation with ERL personnel and equipment, Cissna said the commission could promise updated land use maps to each county every two years. Through map and other data studies, he said projected figures indicate that by 1990 there will be no land areas in Hancock County not in use agriculturally or commercially.

Other GRPC efforts, he pointed out, had been instrumental in Hancock County being certified by the Department of Housing and Urban Development for development of parks and recreation, through federal funding, as well as a program for the preservation of historical sites. Cissna told the group that they had discovered that Hancock County at this time "does not have a single site on the national historic society register." There are several sites and structures, particularly in the Pearl River area, he spoke of as primary targets for inclusion on the register.

The Planning Commission group had on display an amazing number of volumes, representing comprehensive studies of Bay St. Louis and Waveland as well as the county.

Paul Desmarais discussed at length a projected five-volume study of the goals, objectives and standards of urban systems engineering in Hancock County. All volumes and studies of the county are available to administrative officials for the asking.

The primary value of the planning commission, Different stressed, is the fact that the President's office considers more favorably for federal funding those counties which have in existence such agencies as GRPC.

This commission, he concluded, through past recommendations "has been highly instrumental in securing important programs, as well as with one recommendation, stopping some."

Bay To Reinstate Trash Collection

The City of Bay St. Louis will reinstate trash collection at business establishments on the condition that the business men and women comply with the city's ordinances concerning trash.

At a brief meeting Monday morning, City Commissioner

Andre Arceneaux pointed out that the reason the collection was stopped was because large boxes were not being properly prepared for pickup and often the trash was too big for the men to handle. "I have

Battle Continues Over Buffer Zone

A letter from U. S. Senator John C. Stennis to the Hancock County board of supervisors dimmed hopes held by some members of the board for the return of the buffer zone lands to the county.

The letter was read at a board meeting Monday during the course of a discussion on the disposition of the buffer zone.

Referring to a recent meeting with Jackson Balch, Mississippi Test Facility director, supervisor Jerry Ladner challenged Balch's statement that the test site now provided employment for 300 Hancock Countians.

"I want to go on public record," Ladner stated, "that I don't have any confidence in that man or what he says. Later his assistant, Waldo Dearing, told me there were 100 people from the county out there. I don't believe him either."

Ladner called for board action to send a formal petition to Washington requesting return of the buffer zone. Board president A. A. Kellar stated that he was not in favor of such action at this time as he was willing to wait and see "what the government was planning for the test site."

A beat vote was taken on a motion to have the board attorney draw up a petition with Ladner, Oscar Peterson and H. (Bully) Zengarling voting in favor, and Kellar and James Travira voting against the resolution.

At this point, board attorney Ruble Griffin produced the letter which he said could be construed as proof that a petition would be of no avail.

In the August 7 letter, Stennis said, "I have been assured by NASA that the testing of the main rocket for the Space Shuttle which program has been approved will take place at MTF. Because of this, and the continued efforts which I and others are making to build up the facility with NASA, it would seem that the chances for success will be greater if the land area is kept intact."

Turning to the beach road project, complaint was brought of a telephone pole in the middle of the proposed beach roadbed, between De Mouthuzin and Carroll Ave. Donn Murray, assistant county engineer, assured the board that arrangements had been made with the Mississippi Power Company to move the pole.

In a related action, a motion by Ladner, seconded by Zengarling, was passed to request authorization from the state aid road division to proceed with the second phase of the beach road project. The second phase includes the road from Clermont Harbor to Waveland, and North Second St. to the end.

A plea was made by deputy sheriff James Ladner for county intervention to secure the release of the Bosworth estate for a public recreation facility. The estate, which is situated within the buffer zone and is held by NASA, had been used as a recreation area for MTF employees. Ladner said area residents have been using the pool and picnic areas but now MTF authorities have locked the gate and turned off the water supply to the pool.

Kellar admitted that former boards had attempted several times to have the estate opened to the public, but were told that the land could not be authorized for public use.

Zengarling described an inspection tour of the facility with Perry Gibson, county and

Dialogues On Dope

by Adoree Shortle
Echo staff writer

(This is the second in a public service series on the narcotics situation in Hancock and West Harrison counties. Facts and statements expressed in these articles have been compiled from interviews with narcotics users and law enforcement officials in Waveland, Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian and Long Beach.)

IGNORANCE IS FEAR

There has been some incredulous reaction to last week's opener in which we said that in the opinion of young dopers on the coast, 85 percent of the population turns on.

The constant question put to us ever since is "Where did you get THAT figure?" Apparently, no one read past the first line. We clearly stated in the very next line, as above, that is the opinion of narcotics users.

The obligation of a newspaper is to inform the public, with facts, to present unbiased truths. What the individual reader does about the problem after he knows the truth is entirely his prerogative. Here are the facts, for those of you who have the guts to read the rest of the series. For those who can't face truths, telling yourself that your child doesn't do these things does not make it so. It's your children who have told us these truths.

DIALOGUES

The following are excerpts from conversations with Gulf Coast dope users, printed verbatim:

QUESTION - What about parents? What do you tell them when they find out you turn on? Do you talk about it? 12-yr-old girl - Who talks to parents? They get mad and hassle you. You listen. I can't even talk to my parents about staying out past midnight. 16-yr-old male - My mother crys a lot and my old man says he's going to beat the Hell out of me. Then they say I can't run around with my friends. They always blame your friends.

QUESTION - Did your friends get you started turning on? ANSWER - No. I started turning on because I wanted to.

21-yr-old male College student - I wouldn't hurt my parents, they've been too good to me. They know what I do and they put up with me. They just say it's my life, and if I want to ruin it, it's my business, but I'm not going to ruin it. QUESTION - Do you think the dope thing will eventually fade out? 22-yr-old male - No, I think dope's going to be around a long time. Dope isn't a fad, it's a way of life.

21-yr-old male - I'm not so sure about the younger kids coming up. They may not get into it. QUESTION - What about the real young kids just starting?

22-yr-old - They're nervous about it. They're always scared to get caught. Sometimes they can't enjoy it because they're so nervous. They also talk too much and are usually the ones who get everyone else in trouble.

QUESTION - How do you feel about real young kids turning on, the under 15-year-olds?

20-yr-old male - I don't approve of anyone under 18 doing anything.

19-yr-old girl - I don't feel one way or another about it. It's not up to me to tell anyone what to do.

QUESTION - What do you tell an under 18-year-old when he asks you to score (sell or give him dope)?

male - I tell him to go somewhere else. I don't even want to talk to him.

SAME QUES. TO GIRL - I'd tell them what they were getting into and what it could cost them. I wouldn't tell them not to, 'cause they'd do it anyway.

How does a kid get into dope? According to those who do it, first out of curiosity and if he stays with it, because he enjoys it. Once into it, no amount of exhortation is going to stop him. He started because he wanted to and he's not going to stop until HE wants to.

The only thing that does get to him is getting busted (arrested). That he does sweat, not enough to make him stop turning on but enough to make him terribly paranoid.

Incongruously, he'd rather believe in his freak friends than his parents, even though he knows his friends will rip him off (steal from him), sell him bad dope and rat on him when they get busted.

A lot of times a freak knows he's safer in jail on a narcotics rap than he's going to be when he gets out and has to face a betrayed friend -- or vice versa.

If your teenager suddenly turns up beat all to a pulp and refuses to talk about it or to tell you who did it, that's probably the reason. He's done one of the above three things and got caught up with.

Narcotics abuse has always been illegal, but that hasn't stopped anybody. Nor will changing the laws make any difference, anymore than prohibition stopped drinking, or making it legal stopped alcoholism, a freak pointed out.

Alluding to dire physical damage from drug use doesn't

Definite Need Seen For Flood Insurance

Wilkes - Barre...
Isleton...Scottsdale.

Scheduled stops for an exciting fun-filled night club tour of the country? Not quite! Just four agonized cities across the nation that are still attempting to dig out and recover from the sorrow and suffering caused by wind, rain and flooding from Hurricane Agnes; bursted dams or unexpected torrential downpours.

Three years ago this month, Hurricane Camille raked the Gulf Coast and the Southeastern U.S. resulting in insured losses of $225 million, and additional uninsured losses of over $1 billion, a large amount of these caused from flooding.

Shortly after Camille's destructive sweep, the federal government and the nation's insurance industry developed the National Flood Insurance Program to help persons protect themselves against flood losses. However, the insurance information institute says, even though it has been available for three years, most property owners have not yet availed themselves of the program's protection. And indeed, after disaster strikes, many people seem surprised to learn that the protection was available.

Here's how the flood insurance program works according to the Institute:

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in partnership with the private insurance industry has made available flood and multiside insurance for property owners in flood-prone areas. The plan provides at subsidized rates insurance coverages previously.

Originally designed to provide coverage only for homes and small businesses, the flood insurance program recently was expanded to include all apartment buildings; business structures; agricultural, religious and non-profit buildings; and buildings owned by state or local government agencies.

In addition, the program's rates were recently slashed by nearly 40 percent, to encourage wide spread purchase of this coverage. The program now offers typical basic coverage of up to $17,500 for a single-family dwelling, and up to $5,000 for dwelling contents, at an average cost to a home owner of around $60 per year.

Property owners in an eligible area may purchase the coverages from any local insurance agent or broker, according to the Institute.

Communities and counties can become eligible for flood insurance by applying to HUD and by demonstrating that they have in effect land use and control measures to reduce future flood damage.

In Mississippi, the coverage is available in the unincorporated areas of the following counties: Hancock, Harrison and Jackson. Cities eligible include Columbus, Bay St. Louis, Biloxi, Gulfport, Hattiesburg, Laurel, Logan Beach, Meridian, Moss Point, Ocean Springs, Pascagoula, Pass Christian and Waveland.

The Institute points out that sudden disaster—such as the recent tragic devastation wreaked by Hurricane Agnes along the Eastern Seaboard or the costly Rapid City flooding—can wipe out a property owner's life long investment. And in the long run, areas which have had a history of flooding present a higher-than-normal risk of future damage to those who hold property there.

The Institute suggests that those property owners wanting more information about the National Flood Insurance Program contact the nearest HUD office or their insurance agent or broker.

HANCOCK SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT has acquired three additional patrol cars through Law Enforcement Assistance Division funding. Gene Rogers, center, LEAD official, presents a check for 75 percent of the $10,000 total cost of the cars to Chancery Clerk John Rutherford, left, and Sheriff Sylvan Ladner.

Bay St. Louis Police Report

467-9221

Bay St. Louis police responded to 44 calls during the period August 10-16.

A & P Food Store in the Bay Mall Shopping Center was broken into August 10 but nothing was reported missing. Grady Rose, manager of the store, discovered a hole in the roof while on a routine check of the store about 8:45 p.m. He immediately called the police but the suspect or suspects were gone when they arrived.

One two-car accident was reported at the corner of Highway 90 and Dunbar Ave. but no injuries were reported.

A battery was reported stolen August 15 from a truck owned by Robert Boudin. Boudin was fishing off the jetty at Washington St. and South Beach, and when he returned to his truck he noticed the battery was missing.

Operation Identification can save you money and it's free. Check it out at the Bay St. Louis Dept. today.

If you need electricity
we'll find a way to get to you.

Your Electric Power Association has a big job: to get electric power to people who live where they couldn't get electricity otherwise. Sometimes, that means running wires for miles to bring service to just a few homes. It's a job worth doing, though. Because electricity not only brings a better life to people who live in these areas, it paves the way for new industry and economic growth. We'll find a way — after all, that's our job.

You're sitting there trying to pay attention to what's going on. All of a sudden you hear "executive session" and quietly (almost guiltily) everyone files out of the room.

The first time it happens you ask yourself, "What's going on?" The second or third time it happens, you know. An executive session is called when elected or appointed officials decide to meet privately without being hampered by all those noisy, onlooker-citizen types.

It must be understood that this is legal. Officials may meet in executive session to discuss a problem. However, they cannot vote during such a session. Just discuss. And discuss.

Naturally, newspaper reporters are not allowed. Luckily, however, we were able to obtain a tape made during a recent session. For a real behind the scenes report, this is what happened.

Official A: Now look, boys, we've got to thrash this thing out until we reach a solution that will please everyone.

Official B: I'm all for economizing on the project to save the taxpayers' money. The people elected me and I'm here to represent the people.

Official C: There must be a way. Have you consulted our attorney?

Official D: I have and he said he would look into the matter and is writing a letter to the attorney general.

Official A: I say we take a vote on it.

Official B: I second your motion.

Official A: O. K. I vote Coke.

Official B: Coffee.

Official C: Coke.

Official D: The Cokes have it. We will draw up a resolution stating our decision to have Cokes during our meeting instead of coffee.

The wheels of democracy grind away.

Let it be understood that an executive session is not the same thing as an executive meeting. An executive meeting is when officials call an informal "get together" to talk over the problems of running or advising local government. This meeting is usually held at someone's house and, so as not to deter the men from their daily work load, is usually set for around 10 p.m.

If this disturbs you, do not fret. We have it on good authority that the state legislature is trying to pass a law giving the public more participation in local government. In fact, one prominent legislator has even come up with a slogan, "A government of the people, by the people and for the people. Pretty catchy, isn't it? Maybe local officials will go into executive session and adopt it.

Stolen Auto Recovered

An automobile which was stolen from the Bay St. Louis area August 9 has been recovered in Houston, Texas according to Bay St. Louis Chief of Police Bill Carbonette.

The car, belonging to Mrs. Maggie Hayden 710 South Beach Blvd., was parked in front of Dantagnan Realty, Highway 90 when it was stolen. Bay St. Louis police notified the National Crime Information Center giving a description of the auto and the license plate number.

NCIC notified Carbonette Tuesday that the car was found abandoned in Houston by Police August 12.

No arrests have been made in connection with the theft.

POW Resolution

(Below is a resolution concerning the fate of prisoners of war in the Vietnam conflict. If you agree with the resolution, clip it out, sign it and mail it either to Congressman William Colmer, Washington, D.C., or Senators John Stennis or James Eastland, Washington, D.C.)

Dear

As our troops withdraw from Vietnam, and as all America looks forward to the end of this tragic war, the plight of our missing men becomes increasingly more urgent.

We must never again repeat the shocking tragedy of having not demanded a full accounting of our men prior to the cessation of hostilities as we did in North Korea. To this date our government is still attempting to secure information on the 339 men whom they had evidence were prisoners from that conflict. For 18 years the Communists have steadfastly refused to discuss the fate of these men.

This time we must have a full accounting of our men, via a neutral international inspection team such as the International Red Cross, to determine which men are prisoners. In the event of death the next of kin must receive full official information on the circumstances, cause, burial and grave identification.

Although we as Americans may hold many varied personal views on the purpose, morality and terms of settlement of the war in Southeast Asia, we are strongly united in our mutual concern for the men we have sent overseas.

To this end we would like to make clear that whatever course a settlement of the war may take we will not be able to accept any final ending that does not include neutral and acceptable methods which will account for those men whose fate is otherwise unknown.

Sincerely,

Forestry Report

The Mississippi Forestry Commission began taking seedling applications on July 1, 1972. These applications are for trees that will be delivered this winter for planting. This may seem like a long way off now, however, if you wait too long before ordering you may be too late. Seedlings are offered on a "first come - first served" basis. The seedlings will be delivered to a central location in the County and landowners will be notified when their trees arrive.

Each landowner may receive one thousand seedlings of one of the Southern pine species (longleaf, slash, loblolly, shortleaf and spruce) free by paying the delivery charge of fifty cents. Cost per thousand for seedlings (other than the first one thousand free ones) is six dollars. All other species of trees cost thirteen dollars per thousand. There is a fifty cent per thousand delivery charge on all seedlings.

Species available are: Longleaf, slash, loblolly, shortleaf and spruce pines, also bald cypress, sycamore, sweetgum, yellow poplar, catpaw, black locust, cherry bark oak and cottonwood cuttings. Limited amounts of Tupelo gum, nuttall oak, Arizona cypress, Virginia pine, white pine, Scotch pine and red cedar are available.

Persons desiring to plant seedlings or Christmas trees should contact County Forester Mike Hendry as soon as possible.

Our readers write

Dear Sir:

Being a weekly reader of your newspaper, I am very much aware of your efforts in attempting to upgrade and correct many deficiencies in the community. I had an occasion to visit my "hometown" recently and am now more disillusioned than ever. Paramount is my concern over the apparent lack of enthusiasm and interest on the part of citizens when it comes to utilizing God's Gift to Hancock County. In this instance, Hancock County's greatest economic asset is being totally wasted.

Congratulations (?) are in order to all those wonderful (?) civic-minded (?) citizens of Hancock County who have succeeded over the years in stopping progress and development of our greatest economic asset - the approximate 15 miles of beachfront, from Cedar Point through Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Clermont Harbor to Lakeshore.

It might interest all the good citizens that our county and its beachfront is not even considered to be a part of AMERICA'S GULF COAST VACATIONLAND.

What makes up this Vacationland? A magazine article that I recently read lists it as stretching almost 200 miles between Mexico Beach, Florida in the east and Pass Christian, Mississippi in the west and that this Gulf Coast playground makes a complete circle of activities and accommodations. It's a sad commentary on the state-of-affairs when our community is situated on the Gulf Coast with the same potential capabilities, and not be included as part of America's Gulf Coast Vacationland.

It hasn't always been that way because as a youngster, I can remember vividly the influx of "Summer Citizens" on Easter Weekend each year. Our whole beachfront was alive with people and the economic situation was quite healthy. Admittedly, these people usually came between March and October, but did they not spend money throughout the whole community? What's happened? I can't accept comments about the reason being hurricanes. Hurricanes have caused devastating damage and destruction, but they wreaked havoc on the rest of the Mississippi Coast also. During the month of July, I visited the Coast for the first time since Camille. I was positively impressed by the way the citizens and the enterprising club, restaurant and hotel owners from Biloxi to Henderson Point have made a comeback. In fact, I believe there's more going on in that area today than there was before Camille. I cannot, in all honesty, say the same good things about Hancock County's Coastline. Something is amiss. I did not see the energy, the vitality, the sparks of life needed to keep a community growing and progressing. According to one magazine article The Mississippi Coast (oftentimes termed America's Riviera) actually spans twenty-six miles along U.S. 90 from Biloxi to Pass Christian. Again, I ask where are our cities? Are we not a part of America's Gulf Coast Vacationland?

Other cities on the Gulf Coast capitalize on these God-given assets of a beautiful body of water and snow-white beaches. Why shouldn't we? The closer we get to a four-day work week, the more recreational-minded we become. Developing, modernizing, and building our waterfront to attract the vacationing tourist has many benefits. It would improve living conditions, improve the economy, provide more jobs for local people, and entice more retirees to move to a truly relaxing and restful area.

Of course, such a venture requires the team work of all citizens and elected officials. Togetherness must be a way of life - with everyone working for a common cause. In this case, it would be to bring Hancock County and its coastal cities on a par with the rest of the Gulf Coast. Sitting on one's apathy, complaining about conditions, and waiting for someone else to do it just won't get a job done. The rest of the world will eventually pass you by and you'll never really understand why or how it happened.

Why don't the business and professional people join together, and lead the way in getting Hancock County on the map and in the forefront where it belongs? Disharmony, dissension, petty differences of opinion and the "what's in it for me" attitude - all of these should be cast aside and every - business, professional, elected officials, and citizens - move forward to "doing what's best" for the community. NOT what's best for any ONE individual but what's best for ALL.

I'm still very much impressed with the way that Mayor Garfield Lader keeps improving Waveland. Here is a gentleman who has been most unselfish as an elected official - a man who thinks about his community first. But he, too, has apparently been blocked by those do-good (?) who prefer the status quo when it comes to beach improvement. There are many things which can be done to improve/correct the existing problem areas, but I consider the development of a beachfront, which appeals to the tourist, as being the priority effort area. Never forget, tourists spend considerable money during their stay in an area. If it's a first class area, they'll keep coming back - and bring their friends.

Why am I interested? Why do I write such an article? I know full well that I open myself up to comments and, possibly, even criticism. I welcome either of these because it tells me that my article has at least been read. Another reason for my writing is the fact that I grew up in Bay St. Louis, and from a very emotional point of view I love my hometown and I care about what happens to it and to all of its good people. My wife and I plan to return and live in Bay St. Louis when I retire from active military service. When that time comes, we hope to return to a city full of life, energy and vitality. A communion of people that, together as one, is productively engaged in making the community publicly known to everyone as a thriving, progressive, and truly modern one.

So, what do you say fellow citizens? Let's take up the challenge, join together and work towards making Hancock County and all its cities a part of America's Gulf Coast Vacationland! Who knows, if you try it, you might like it.

United Fund Needs Full Support

As we approach the October Campaign of the Hancock County United Fund we are again reminded of the large number of wage earners who work in other areas. Their contributions go to the community where they are employed, yet their families receive the benefits of the Hancock County United Fund Agencies.

With so little industry in our county it is difficult to raise the $24,000 required to support our worthy agencies, which do such a tremendous day-to-day job in the community. These service and youth-oriented organizations were included in the Fund because we and our children need them. Let us all get together and support: THE HANCOCK COUNTY RETARDED CHILDREN'S ASSOCIATION, THE GIRL AND THE BOY SCOUTS, COASTAL MENTAL HEALTH PROGRAM, THE EMERGENCY RELIEF FUND, CATHOLIC SOCIAL SERVICES, THE AMERICAN RED CROSS, THE U. S. O., CAMP ONWARD, THE GULF COAST FAMILY COUNSELLING AGENCY, THE BLOOD BANK, AND THE TRAVELER'S AID ASSOCIATION.

This is The Year of the Rat. According to the County Health Department, the rat population rises and falls over the years, and this is one of the rising times. About every eighteen months the federal health authorities, working through our county health department, make a local rat check for traces of bubonic plague, yellow fever and other virulent diseases carried by this obnoxious pest and passed on by it to humans by bites or contact with food or household utilities.

The local health department, located on Dunbar Avenue next to the hospital, is well staffed under the direction of Wayne Alliston. Part time staffers are two doctors, one nurse's aid, and one X-ray technician, and in addition there are eight full time inspectors and technicians who make daily inspections of restaurants, lunchrooms, food handlers and premises on which sanitary conditions are less than standard.

Unfortunately the public doesn't always cooperate in maintaining a high level of sanitation. Did you know that barbers, for instance, are required to wash their hands after serving each customer and to keep their combs and scissors sterile-clean by dipping them frequently in an antiseptic? Apparently our local barbers are a bit remiss in observing this regulation; at any rate, we've never seen one of them wash his hands after serving a customer. Nor are some of our food handlers as finicky as they might be about cleanliness; but as Mr. Alliston might say, you can't police every store twice a day, and if the customers put up with it, they're the losers.

By and large, the people on the Coast have been doubly lucky; they have an efficient health service and they haven't had a major outbreak of disease for a long, long time. All of the major killers have been controlled, if not completely wiped out; even the most virulent of childhood ills, such as diphtheria, typhoid and scarlet fever are notable for their almost entire absence. The picture is not entirely perfect, of course, as there still are plenty of mosquitoes, ticks and rabid skunks and rabbits, but their victims are chiefly among the animal population.

Mr. Alliston, head of the local health bureau, is a long-time resident of Bay St. Louis, coming here from Jackson thirty-one years ago after graduating from Vanderbilt. He admits that The Year of the Rat is giving him headaches, as his staff is not large enough to give him control of the pesky rodents, and it is up to each householder to help by spreading poison and cleaning up litter. So up with the pirate emblem and death to all the filthy marauders!

Trumpets In The Morning

by Parry D. Neal, Pastor
First Baptist Church, Bay St. Louis

Some adults today are saying that our young people are getting in with the wrong crowd, that they show lack of respect for their elders and for the law, are rebellious, have loose morals and lack discipline.

But young people, when speaking of adults, point to hypocrisy, a double-standard, social injustices, complacency, lack of communication and love.

Today's average young person is an idealist and cannot stand contradictions. He scorns prejudice. Hypocrisy enrages him. If our society fosters injustices, we can count on him to reveal and condemn those injustices. He is questioning - just about everything - even the effectiveness of our social institutions. We taught them to think, and now we wish they wouldn't think so much.

Mortimer Feinberg says: "The kids, with their heightened appreciation of the self, with their empathy and their idealism have shaken us up and made some of us at least take a new look at our own shortcomings." If we are right, we have nothing to fear. But if we are wrong, we should be grateful to those who point out the error of our ways.

In the light of all this, it may be well for us to ask ourselves: Did we help to put the gap between our youth and ourselves? Are we forcing our young people to rebel? At no time do I justify the wrong attitudes and actions of youth, and least of all college students. "Two wrongs don't make a right," even if the first wrong was done by an adult. I am trying to bring in - as evidence - the things that confuse and frustrate our young people.

Evangelist Billy Graham, knowing youth as he does, says: "There is no doubt about it, we have given wrong values to our young people. We have taken the line that man can live by materialism alone, and now we're suddenly finding out that he cannot." "Young people today," he adds, "are on a mad quest for purpose, for meaning, for fulfillment." Though young people are questioning the validity of our beliefs and practices, they are also asking important questions about themselves. This makes me optimistic about the future.

If students have rejected much of the mainstream of traditional American values, what is the alternative they seek? Wonders Sam Levenson in Everything But Money: "Instead of challenging them with great causes, have we encouraged them to tinker with trifles?" Let's Challenge them with JESUS. STRAIGHT AHEAD!

Tips To Veterans And Dependents

PREPARED BY CHESTER CURVEY HANCOCK COUNTY VETERANS SERVICE OFFICER

1. Hancock North Central High School has now been approved by the Mississippi State Veterans Affairs Approving Board for veterans training. All eligible veterans who do not have a High School education, should take advantage of this GI educational benefit.

2. The House of Representatives has passed H.R. 12874 titled the National Cemeteries Act. The Bill has now been sent to the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee for consideration. If passed this Bill will place the National Cemetery System under the Veterans Administration, with only a few exceptions, and would provide an additional "special plot" allowance of $150 in addition to the $250 already allowed for funeral expenses. This would provide $400 toward the burial expenses of the veteran. All widows who have not applied for the $250 burial allowance, now allowed, should do so at once.

3. I am frequently requested to give individuals the proper way to write their Senator or Representative in Washington, so here is the preferred way:

The Honorable John K. Doe
United States Senate
Washington D. C. 20510

The Honorable John J. Doe
House of Representatives
Washington D. C. 20515

Dear Senator Doe:

Dear Mr. Doe:

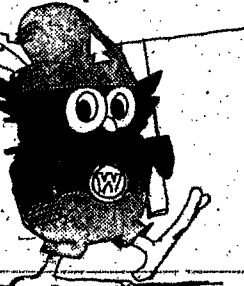

This is a practice which I heartily endorse, by the way, since it is the only way for many people to let their elected officials know how his constituents feel on items of national interest. The letter should be brief, specific, courteous and readable.

4. Additional benefits are in store for some widows of U.S. Servicemen killed in action in the Viet Nam War, due to a recent decision of the U.S. Comptroller General. Those involved are survivors whose husbands were initially carried as missing; those advanced in rank during the MIA period and those who were officially listed as dead after being listed as MIA for as much as several years. The survivors will be paid according to the higher pay scales and grades in effect at the time the veteran was declared legally dead.

The Gulf Coast Chapter of the Mississippi Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Assn. has films available concerning emphysema, effects of cigarette smoking, and symptoms of respiratory diseases. These could be beneficial to our young people, as well as our adult community. Any organization interested in presenting some of these to their groups, contact the Chamber office (467-9048).

A big "thank you" to our realtors who have placed listings on the Red Carpet Committee bulletin board. Don't forget to occasionally update these lists and drop them by the Chamber office. The Red Carpet Committee will have a reception for newcomers Thursday, 8 p.m. at the Sheraton-Biloxi in Gulf Room A. Try to attend.

2,580,000 veterans have availed themselves of educational training, at a cumulative cost of $3,700,000,000.00 through 1971. The state of Mississippi received of this, $31,087,161.00 for compensation and pensions. In 1971 Hancock County received a total of $1,009,739.00. From these figures it is quite apparent that the Veterans Administration helps the economy of the state and county considerably.

Long Beach Woman Offers Alternative

A change of lifestyle is in order for those of us who are deeply interested in a quality environment. We feel a responsibility to live more closely with the order of nature, and that it is a privilege, not a burden, to do so.

Lately we have been hearing a lot about new life styles, and most of us really want to add something more fulfilling to our present way of life. I have decided to do a series of interviews with coastal residents who have struck out and done something about changing their way of life or who have started new habits in order to build a better way of life.

I discovered Mrs. A.W.

Daniel of Long Beach by reading a letter she had written to the editor of the Daily Herald. I called Mrs. Daniel right away to make an appointment with her. I found that she was not a young flower child with long hair, nor did she wear blue jeans or go barefoot. She is a lovely lady who has a husband and three grown sons. She is the kind of person anyone would enjoy talking with. She impressed me as being very "American" and gave as her reason for becoming interested in organic gardening her love and concern for this beautiful country we live in. "So much of our soil is being depleted of its humus, all of our water is becoming polluted by the use of chemical fertilizers and pesticides. We can't go on this way. Something must be done and we all can't wait around for someone else to do it. If anything is going to happen to change the state of affairs it will have to get its start 'at home,'" says Mrs. Daniel.

Mrs. Daniel has been a resident of Long Beach 12 years and before coming here she lived in New Orleans but grew up on her father's 500-acre farm and dairy. She said "Most of the methods used for growing vegetables there were organic but no nobody had to call it that since it was the natural thing to do. All the cattle manure was put to good use in the garden."

I asked Mrs. Daniel how many hours a day she had to spend on her garden. She admitted that it does take almost two hours a day, an hour in the cool of the early morning and an hour late in the evening but that it is all very enjoyable, refreshing and healthy. Her garden is small and only a part of it was for growing corn but she got 250 ears from it.

I wondered about the money she put into it and whether she really saved any. "I don't have to buy a single vegetable or fruit all year round except for an occasional tomato for salad. My freezer is packed. The only thing I bought for my garden was some spoiled hay for thirty cents a bushel and a little organic rock phosphate and granite dust," she replied. What do you do about insect pest? I asked. "When you have well-nourished plants which you surely do have when your soil is rich you won't have any problem with pests at all. Plant are like people. The weaker, poorly nourished ones are more susceptible to disease. Once in a while I see a squash bug which is easy enough to pick off by hand. There are other factors too, like growing things that thrive here best. Sometimes if a plant is severely attacked it is because it is not suited to the particular region," she replied.

I asked Mrs. Daniels how she developed her interest and knowledge in organic gardening. "A friend of mine subscribed to Rodale's Organic Farm and Gardening. I found it to be a marvelously informative magazine and I became concerned about the harm that our present methods of farming is doing to our land and our health."

The following is the letter to the editor that Mrs. Daniel wrote copied with her permission.

"My hobby is organic gardening, vegetables, fruit, flowers. Can say from experience, vegetables grown by this method are much tastier. Brings back memories of all the good foods my father and mother grew on our farm when I was a child. This was before man-made fertilizer was used very much and there were no poison sprays then. I use organic fertilizer, manure, cottonseed meal, blood meal, bone meal, granite dust, rock phosphate, dolomite lime and others. My soil is so rich now it's possible to grow three crops a year. "Winter, September to March - turnips, lettuce, cauliflower, broccoli, brussels sprouts, carrots, celery shallots, parsley, English peas.

"January 20-30 - Irish potatoes, spring corn, pole and bush beans and climbing butter beans, squash, okra, tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers, eggplants, onions. "As corn comes off in May and June, I planted more corn, tomatoes, squash, okra, cucumbers, and lots of peas, all of which are bearing now. "Am planting plots of fall vegetables now to be transplanted in August and September, after present vegetables complete their cycle.

"My garden is only about 32 feet by 38 feet and in midst of it, I grow two concord grape vines that had lots of grapes this year. Also have strawberry bed and row of boysenberries. I use all my newspapers for mulch, along with my garbage, grass clippings, sawdust and lots of leaves.

"By the way our city of Long Beach saves all leaves picked up in fall by trash trucks and piles them behind city barn for anyone who wants them. For this I am grateful as I have hauled loads home for garden and compost pile. Also used spoiled hay as mulch.

If there are other organic gardeners on the Coast would love to hear from them. Mrs. A. W. Daniel 208 East 2nd St.

Bunker Gear Bought For Bay Volunteers

The Bay St. Louis Fire Department has purchased ten sets of bunker gear for the volunteer firemen.

The gear, which includes pants, jackets, and suspenders, was purchased with money donated by professional and business leaders in Bay St. Louis through an appeal made by Jim Rutherford, volunteer chief.

Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Richard Fayard said that there was a most gratifying response - and $745 was received.

In a cost breakdown, Fayard revealed that the pants cost $18.55 each; the coat $34.55; helmets, $20; suspenders, $3; and an additional $5 for reflective tape on the clothes. The boots, which cost $18 a pair will be paid for by each man.

Chief Fayard said that there are now 10 men on the volunteer roster.

HNC Teachers Attend Workshop

Herbert Goldstein, Ph.D., director of the graduate school of Yeshiva University, New York City, and director of curriculum research and development under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, spoke Thursday to a group of elementary teachers from North Central. Dr. Goldstein spoke on the social learning curriculum which will be used as a learning tool at Hancock North Central Elementary later in the month.

This was the beginning of a workshop series for Hancock North Central Elementary which is preparing to enter its new title III Program.

The workshops will run through Friday.

Coast Episcopal Opens September 5

On September 5, for the second time in three years, a new Coast Episcopal High School will open its doors in Pass Christian.

Not an ordinary high school, the half million dollar complex is as much a testimonial to the faith and tenacity of a priest's vision as it is a superbly executed institution for classic education.

Three years ago, on August 14, Fr. Charles Johnson, rector of Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis and school headmaster, viewed with pleasure a newly completed and well-equipped high school, situated on the beach in Pass Christian.

The two-building installation, located in the renovated Simmons estate and costing a quarter of a million dollars, was the culmination of a 22-year dream for Fr. Johnson - the founding of a non-denominational, non-discriminatory school, covering kindergarten through 12th grade. Students in the school came from coast cities from Waveland to, and including, Ocean Springs.

On August 17, hurricane Camille completely wiped out the school. There was nothing left to rebuild and all available money had been spent to convert and equip the buildings. The 22-year-old elementary school in Bay St.

Louis was left relatively intact but the new high school was gone.

Disheartened but not deterred, Johnson, the school trustees and parents set to work again even more determined to achieve their goal. This time a 37-acre pecan grove was purchased.

And, there is much more to the rodeos than just fishing. Entertainment, fish fries, dances and other fulfilled activities make the rodeos an unforgettable summertime experience. Combine it with all the glamour of the Mississippi Gulf Coast beaches, fine resort hotels and many seashore attractions, and you've got a catch that can't be beat.

Fisherman's Delight

The thrills of deep sea fishing attract fishermen from all over the United States and several foreign countries to the Mississippi Gulf Coast every summer. The annual mid-summer Deep Sea Fishing Rodeos held in Biloxi and Gulfport offer exciting entertainment for everyone from the avid sportsman to the interested spectators.

Two of the largest deep sea fishing rodeos in the world send fishermen into the gulf to battle for thousands of dollars in cash and merchandise. Awards are presented to winners in dozens of fishing categories, including special categories for children.

the site two and a half miles off the beach in Pass Christian, where there had been no flooding from Camille and almost no wind damage.

A local architectural firm designed another two-building complex containing 13 classrooms, general offices, staff and student lounges and a library. Directly behind the main building are an athletic field, house, tennis courts, football field and baseball diamond.

This school costing more than a half million dollars, has even more to offer in athletic facilities as well as academic advantages for 300 students.

Once again Fr. Johnson and Peter Psikogios, principal of the two schools, are preparing to open the new Coast Episcopal High School in three weeks, with the fervent hope that this school is here to stay.

DIALOGUES...

Impress a doper, either, as he has been knowing what the medical profession is now cautiously admitting. Marijuana in moderation is not harmful nor does it irrevocably lead to hard core addiction.

A long time doper will also tell you that he has seen too many normal babies born of parents who drop acid to buy the story about "acid makes split chromosomes". The average freak does know, however, and will admit to the dangers of fooling with the hard stuff. He'll tell you only someone who has experienced it can know the horrors of a bad trip, or what it's like to freak out on something that he can't control.

Almost every doper has watched a friend "go over his head" on heroin, or almost suffocate from sniffing raw cocaine. He is also acutely aware of the dangers of too much speed (benzadryne, amphetamine). Every speed freak knows that if he pops too many he stands a good chance of O.D.'ing (over dosing) or dying and the only thing that can save him is a downer, to slow his heart and take him down easy. The hard core freak knows he has a lot more to lose than his life and by the time he's hooked on the hard stuff, he's lost control - and he's in Hell.

"Dopers are weak," a 19-year-old reformed user said laconically. "I don't care what they say, people turn on because once they start, they're too weak to stop."

Where do the Gulf Coast freaks get their dope? This is what they say:

QUESTION - Where on the coast can you get it the most? ANSWER - It's safer in Hancock County. It comes out of New Orleans to Gulfport and Biloxi. There are plenty of hard core dopers in Biloxi. And the Kessler guys get a lot from overseas contacts.

QUESTION - Do you know the name of the guy who comes in through Hancock, usually twice a week, from Picayune? ANSWER - Are you kidding? Nobody knows his name. That's why he doesn't get caught.

QUESTION - What about The Man in Sidiell? ANSWER - He works mostly back of town in the Bay. A lot of real little kids turn on back of town. The Man has a lot of the hard stuff and he works the young kids.

QUESTION - Think the police will ever get him? ANSWER (from about five at once) - Never happen, man! No one around here's smart enough. Maybe only the super narcs (federal agents).

According to dope users all over the coast, Waveland and Bay St. Louis are now the safest places to buy, Pass Christian runs a close second. Long Beach is too hot.

A Waveland freak said, "I tried for a week to make a buy in Long Beach and I couldn't get a thing. Everybody kept saying go out of town."

The fallacy still held by some police and the uniformed is that heads have to buy from the big dealers. That's not true. Every doper deals. Anyone who turns on sells to anyone else.

The teenager in your home probably buys from another teenager in Waveland, who got it from a doctor in Bay St. Louis, who's own teenager buys his from a 30-year-old freak in Pass Christian. And he can get it from any one of several local pharmacists who know exactly what they're doing.

There are bigger dealers who come from out of town on regular runs and drop pounds of grass, hash, cocaine, speed and acid. They come in assorted sizes and ages but they are generally older and very adept at not getting caught.

The most popular commodity on the coast, marijuana, can be gotten anywhere, anytime with little trouble. A lot of dopers grow their own. In Hancock and West Harrison counties the woods are full of it. We've been in two homes, both in Waveland, where a row of potted marijuana plants were growing healthily in a sunny window. When the plants got bigger, they are transplanted outside for a later harvest.

How bad is it in the schools? The following conversation is a composite of many with high school students in Waveland, Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian and Long Beach:

QUESTION - Is there much dope in the high schools? ANSWER - Boy, is there! The schools are full of it. And it's happened mostly in the last three years.

QUESTION - Do the kids keep it in school and turn on in school? ANSWER - Sure. In the mornings before school starts, kids stand around on the school grounds, smoking. They deal and everything, right in the open.

QUESTION - Do they keep grass and pills in their lockers and on their persons? ANSWER - All the time. They smoke in the halls during class breaks. If you know how to keep a cool high the teachers can't tell. A lot of kids eat grass all day in school.

QUESTION - Don't the teachers or principals ever catch anybody? ANSWER - Nobody's ever been caught in school that I know of. They must be too dumb to know, or they're afraid to face it.

The majority of students seem to have an attitude of complete confidence that school authorities aren't going to investigate or do anything about narcotics in schools. With one exception.

In one private school on the coast, school authorities are very much aware of the problem. Periodic locker checks are made and students caught in possession of any controlled substance are quietly and immediately expelled. Quite a few have left the school this past year.

For the most part, school officials admit that there is probably dope in the schools.

One public school administrator said, however, that to date students had given no provocation for either locker "shake downs" or student expulsion.

Another private school principal said philosophically, "I'm not saying there isn't any in our school. In fact, there are a couple I'm pretty sure do turn on. But we watch very closely and haven't caught anyone yet."

How do you know if your child is turning on?

First, as a parent you have to be willing to admit that YOUR child would, and probably is. Take a good look at him, or her. His appearance tells you as well as a drastic change in his behavior. He's uncommunicative, paranoid, and more reticent than he's ever been. Take a good look at his friends. That'll tell you, if nothing else does.

It is our personal opinion that, now on the coast, in every family of three children, at least one is turning on. We know of too many families of four or more in which all but the youngest turn on.

If you really take a hard, objective look at your child, you'll know. As soon as you face it, face him with it. Don't ask him, because you'll just make him lie. Tell him you know.

Before you get to that point, you'd best decide what you're going to do about it, if anything.

Of course, if you don't care that much about your child, you can always cop out and not face it. That way, you won't have to do anything until he gets busted and the police face it for you.

Do consider this. In a lot of cases, your young teenager is afraid. He's into something he knows he's too young to handle. And sometimes, he's hoping desperately that you'll tell him what to do.

(NEXT WEEK - Dialogues with police authorities; how do they feel about drug abuse, what are they doing about it, how do the freaks feel about police, who do the laws protect, the law breaker or the citizen?)

Rotary Governor Will Address Local Group

Rotarians will welcome on August 23, the governor of this Rotary District, Mr. R. L. Bolton of Picayune, Miss. He will address the Rotary Club of Bay St. Louis, one of 36 in his district, and will confer with Mr. Gus Uram, president.

America is the place that is made out of dreams. And, U.S. Savings Bonds have been helping to make happy dreams come true for years.

Now, Bonds mature in less than six years. That means your dreams can come true faster than ever before.

You can buy shares in your particular dream by joining the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or the Bond-a-Month plan where you bank.

Before you know it, your American dream will be a reality.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months, 4 1/2% the first year. Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America. Now Bonds mature in less than six years.

of the Rotary Club, and with other club officials concerning the groups plans for service activities and offer suggestions on administrative matters.

Mr. Bolton is one of 340 Rotary governors throughout the world who are serving as representatives of Rotary International in districts composed of member clubs. Each district governor is responsible for supervising the clubs in his area. Rotary, an international men's service organization, has 718,500 members in 15,225 clubs in 149 countries.

A member and past president of the Rotary Club of Franklinton, La. Mr. Bolton is a retired school teacher. He is now a member of the Picayune Rotary Club. He was elected to office at the International Rotary Convention in Houston, Texas in June 1972 and will serve until June 30, 1973.

Before his election to the office of District Governor, Mr. Bolton attended an International Assembly in Lake Placid, New York, at which all Rotary Governors for 1972-73 attended in-depth seminars to prepare for their jobs. One of his biggest jobs will be to hold a district conference of all Rotary Clubs in his district comprising Southern Mississippi and Southeastern Louisiana. The conference will be held April 26, 27, & 28th, 1973 in Biloxi, Mississippi.

Board Approves School Budget

The trustees of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District unanimously approved the school budget for the 1972-73 school term in the amount of $1,068,566 at a special meeting July 21. The new budget presented by J.D. McCullough, superintendent of City Schools, will be financed through $591,718 in State Minimum Program funds and $476,848 by local funds.

The breakdown of the total budget is as follows: Administration $52,526; Instruction $746,290; Health Services $3,795; Transportation Services $16,207; Operation of Plant $92,596; Maintenance of Plant $24,988; Fixed Charges $100,259; Food Services $12,840; Student Body Activities $14,800; Site Improvement $3,000; Debt Services from Current Funds

$1,265 making a grand total of all expenditures $1,068,566. McCullough stated that this budget includes a cost of living increment for all personnel except teachers who received a five percent increment as passed by the Legislature at their 1972 session; expenditures for the operation of the new twelve classroom Waveland Elementary School; additional Special Education Department; and an additional elementary and high school Art Department to be added to the curriculum.

MTF Extends Contract For GE Services

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has announced the extension of a contract with General Electric Company, Daytona Beach, FL, to provide technical support services at the Mississippi Test Facility. Cost of the extension, which runs from August 1, 1972, to July 31, 1973, is about $2.3 million.

General Electric was selected last year, following competitive negotiations, for award of a one-year contract with two renewable one-year options.

The contractor provides engineering support services, data support, test and instrumentation services and scientific laboratory services to NASA and other federal agencies located at the site. The MTF, former rocket testing site for first and second stages of the Apollo Saturn V vehicle, is presently engaged in space and environmental research. It has also been selected as the sea-level testing site for shuttle rocket system engines.

been assured that the businesses will comply. If they don't, don't pick up the trash," Arceneaux told Felix Seeger, who heads the city's Garbage and Trash Collection department.

Arceneaux also suggested that the trash pickup be made on a trial basis and if it becomes too expensive for the city to handle, some other arrangements will be made. Seeger agreed to provide each business with a copy of the city's ordinance covering trash collection. He also pointed out that the litter barrels were being used as garbage cans and people were throwing crabs and shrimp into the containers. "People throw their garbage into the litter barrels and soon it is falling all over the street," Seeger said.

Commissioner William Frisbie suggested that Seeger contact the Bay St. Louis Cleanup and Beautification Committee about the problem and perhaps a solution could be worked out.

The council will meet again Monday at 7 p.m.

Hurricane Camille

August 17, 1969

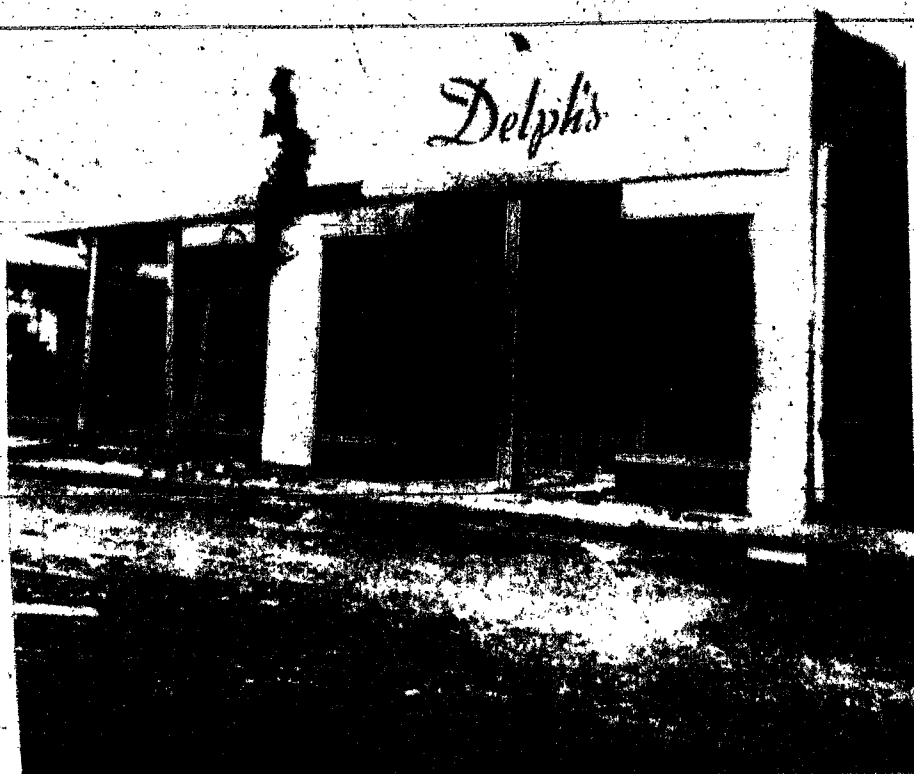

A&P Food Store in Long Beach

Why commemorate a disaster? Why bring back memories of a time that most of us would like to forget? Because, when we remember Camille, we remember the people—the people who had the strength and courage to rebuild their homes, their businesses, their lives.

These pictures tell only part of the story. The vast destruction wrought by Camille can not be recounted with figures because to some of us it was not only the loss of a home, but the loss of a spirit. It was hard to accept the fact that everything one had worked for was suddenly gone—literally overnight.

And so this page is not an exercise in morbid nostalgia, but a reminder of what we had to overcome. Which we did. The homes and the businesses you see today testify to the courage of the people of the Gulf Coast.

Students Will Teach In Bay School System

More than 160 education majors at the University of Southern Mississippi will be doing their student teaching in various school systems during the Fall quarter.

The group comprises those who, prior to graduation, must actually teach, under supervision of an experienced classroom instructor.

By so doing, the neophyte gains insight into the many practical problems which no book can entirely cover—and the knowledge of how to cope with them!

BAY ST. Specially For Seniors

When the golden retirement age is reached it's just as important to eat nutritionally well balanced meals as ever. And though cooking for one or two is always a challenge, it becomes more so if retirement funds must be stretched and appetites sometimes decrease.

One problem is a shortage of recipes that cater to one or two. Today's recipes were specially developed for small families and those who eat alone: Triple Meat Loaf and Toasted Corn Bread Rounds.

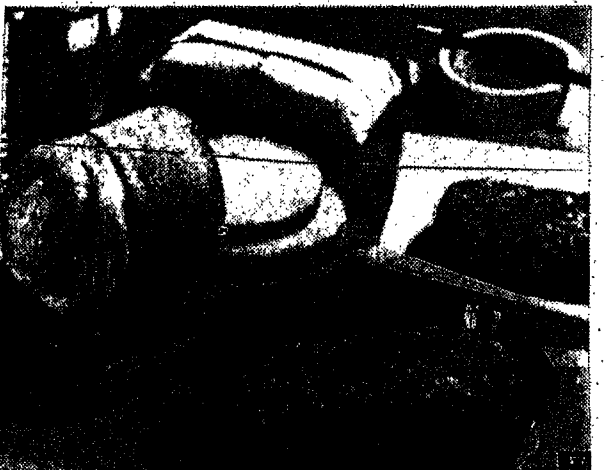

The ground beef mixture for the loaves is mildly seasoned, and quick or old fashioned ones look in natural juices, making the meat moist, flavorful and especially tender. The meat is shaped into 3 little loaves — one to cook now and two to freeze for later; each loaf makes two servings.

TRIPLE MEAT LOAF

Makes 3 small meat loaves

- 1 1/2 lb. ground beef
- 1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon parsley flakes
- 1 egg, beaten
- One 4-oz. can mushroom stems and pieces, drained (optional)
- 1/2 cup tomato juice

Heat oven to moderate (350°F.). Combine all ingredients thoroughly. Divide the mixture into 3 equal parts. Shape each part to form a meat loaf about 1 1/2 inches high and about 6 inches long. Tightly wrap 2 loaves in freezer wrap and freeze for future use. Bake remaining loaf in preheated oven (350°F.) about 40 minutes.

NOTE: Thaw frozen meat loaf before baking. Bake as directed above.

TOASTED CORN BREAD ROUNDS

Makes 8 slices

- 1 1/4 cups enriched yellow corn meal
- 1/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup sugar (optional)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 egg
- 1 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons shortening, soft

Heat oven to hot (400°F.). For corn bread, sift together dry ingredients into bowl. Add egg, milk and shortening.

Beat with rotary beater until smooth, about 1 minute. Do not overbeat. Bake in well greased empty 1 lb. 13-oz. round can in preheated oven (400°F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Remove from oven and let stand 2 to 3 minutes; loosen with spatula and remove from can. Cool thoroughly.

Cut into 8 slices. Wrap and freeze. Remove slices as needed and toast in toaster or broiler. Serve with butter or margarine.

Bay-Waveland Second In Knost Regatta

The Bay-Waveland Yacht Club team finished second in the annual all-girl Knost Regatta held at Pass Christian Yacht Club August 13 and 14. The defending champion Pensacola Yacht Club won the series again this year with the same team that won the honors in 1971, Donna Pittman, Toni Stitt and Carol Troendle.

The first race was won by Donna Pittman, PYC, with Chris Stieffel of BWYC in second place. Ann Stieffel finished first in the second race, followed by St. Andrew's Bay YC. Sunday's race which lasted almost three hours through light, variable winds, was won by Sparky Arceneaux of Southern Yacht Club, Carol Troendle, PYC, was second. Commodore Dugan presented trophies to the BWYC skippers Chris Stieffel, Ann Stieffel, and Anne Chapman for second place team. Trophies were presented to Ann Stieffel and her crew Anne Chapman and Elizabeth Chapman for winning the second race and a plaque was given to the team captain for Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

USM Alumni Will Meet In Long Beach

A Southern caravan composed of representatives from the University of Southern Mississippi administration, athletic department, and Alumni Association, along with the current Miss USM, will be featured at the August 18 District Alumni Meeting at the Gulf Park Campus in Long Beach.

The Friday evening buffet dinner, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., will feature USM President William D. McCain, Head Football Coach P.W. Underwood, officers of the Alumni Association, and Patty Woodworth of Gulfport, the reigning Miss Southern.

A sell-out crowd is expected and alumni and their families are urged to get their tickets ($2.50 each) early in order to insure reservations. They may be reserved through any of the local alumni chapter officers.

Casual clothes will be the dress for the evening and alumni are asked to come early to tour the new USM degree-granting center.

This district meeting is the fourth of five to be scheduled during the summer by USM alumni groups. Earlier gatherings have been held in Brookhaven, Meridian and Jackson. The final one is set for Hattiesburg on Thursday, Sept. 7.

Second World Conference

World Park People Gather At Yellowstone

Delegates from about 90 countries are expected to attend the Second World Conference on National Parks scheduled for Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks, September 18-27, 1972.

One of the highlights of the National Parks Centennial year, the Conference is sponsored by the Department of the Interior, National Park Service, the International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources, and the National Parks Centennial Commission. Co-sponsors of the event are UNESCO, Food and Agriculture Organization, and the Natural Resources Council of America.

The first World Conference on National Parks was held in Seattle, 1962, at which time a resolution was passed that another World Conference be scheduled to honor the creation of Yellowstone as the world's first national park. This second Conference is expected to provide an opportunity for representatives of other park systems to meet with their counterparts in America's national and state parks to share and exchange information which will be of lasting benefit to all peoples of the world.

Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton has stated in his letter of invitation to representatives of park systems in other countries, "We hope also to explore ways in which national parks can be effective tools by which governments can help solve social and environmental problems."

Because of limited accommodation and meeting facilities, participation in the Conference will be by invitation only. Delegates will tour the Yellowstone

The symbol of the Second World Conference on National Parks is the reverse side of the official medallion struck for the National Parks Centennial. The Yellowstone Falls and buffalo symbolize the great scenic diversity of the first national park, and the globe represents the spread of the park concept to more than 90 nations around the world.

Delegates from 90 countries are expected to participate in the conference. The discussion topics for these papers will cover such fields as tropical, polar, marine and mountain park management, wildlife and resource management, visitor services, staff training and environmental interpretation.

"The Second World Conference on National Parks provides a unique opportunity for nations to meet and share knowledge on a world heritage of national parks and equivalent reserves," Secretary Morton said.

It's Been Hot...

When it's extremely hot, day and night, air conditioners run almost constantly, so it has taken a lot of electricity to keep you cool this summer. But it sure beats the heat, and when you consider how much electricity you have really used, the cost per kilowatt hour has been mighty low.

Electricity is still the biggest bargain in the family budget.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"I Just Killed My..."

Poking fun at the law, a cartoon shows a man rushing into the police station to confess a murder. But the desk sergeant frantically waves him into silence. "You don't have to say a word," the sergeant explains, "until you have seen a lawyer." This may be good cartooning. But it is bad law. The sergeant has no obligation to interrupt a confession that is offered voluntarily. Furthermore, the man's statement may be used against him in court.

Consider an actual case: A motorcycle officer sirened a motorist to the curb and asked to see his driver's license and registration slip. After a moment's hesitation, the man shrugged. "Well, I guess you've got me," he said. "I stole the car."

Brought to trial later for car theft, he claimed that his confession could not be used against him because the officer had failed to warn him of his rights. But the court found nothing wrong with the confession, since the man had made it of his own free will.

What kind of pressures do taint a confession as "involuntary"—hence inadmissible in court? Obvious examples are the use of physical violence or mental intimidation. Such methods run afoul of the constitutional privilege against self-incrimination.

But a confession may also be ruled out because it was obtained by the unfair use of promises or temptations.

In one case, a man under questioning about a robbery was informed that his wife—also being held—would be released if he would confess he had committed the crime.

He did confess. But this time, his confession was held to be inadmissible in court. The judge said a confession obtained by offering such a powerful temptation had one great drawback in the eyes of the law:

It was all too easily withdrawn.

Pied Piper

Little Tommy raced across the street to buy a strawberry cone from the ice cream truck. But as he started back, he stepped into the path of an oncoming car. Tommy was seriously injured, and his family sued the ice cream company for having failed to warn him of the danger.

At the trial, the company protested that its driver had no obligation to take care of other people's children. But the court ruled otherwise. Ordering the company to pay damages, the judge said: "The sense of haste is purposely aroused in the children by the tinkling of bells and flashing of lights. The responsibility of one who provokes into action the natural recklessness of children ought (to) be proportionate to the danger he creates."

There have been a number of these "Pied Piper" lawsuits in which a street vendor has been held liable for tempting a child into jeopardy. However, some courts have rejected such claims, at least when special circumstances come into the picture.

Consider another case, also involving injury to a youthful ice cream purchaser. This time, the boy had walked some distance around the rear of the truck before starting back across the street. Moreover, he was a vigorous 10-year-old, the kind of youngster ordinarily well able to cross alone.

Denying damages, the court said the driver could not fairly be blamed for assuming that the boy was "on his own."

Furthermore, the victim himself may be guilty of negligence. Thus:

An 11-year-old boy leaped onto the running board of an ice cream truck, out of the driver's line of vision. When the truck began to accelerate, the boy fell off to the pavement.

In the lawsuit that followed, he acknowledged that he had been aware of the risk he was taking. Turning down his claim, the court said:

"All the essential ingredients of contributory negligence were present."

Cold drinks made with fruit juices are the perfect remedy for the hot weather wearies. Because fruit juices contain vitamins and natural fruit sugars for quick energy, they are a wise choice for meals, snacks and entertaining.

Six packs of single-serving cans of juice are convenient "first-aid" kits for summer. Each can holds just enough juice to energize a single summer drink — no waste or bulky cans to refrigerate. The variety of juices and nectars available in "Libby's" six pack cans makes summer beverage preparation simple, and the selection is almost unlimited.

Serve juices over crushed ice, combined with carbonated or alcoholic beverages and in punches. Party Creme Cooler, a delicious blend of peach and apricot nectars, is perfect for guests who prefer a non-alcoholic beverage. And remember, frozen juice cubes keep drinks fresh longer. To make cubes just pour your choice of fruit juice, fruit drink or nectar into ice cube trays and freeze.

"I Just Killed My..."

Poking fun at the law, a cartoon shows a man rushing into the police station to confess a murder. But the desk sergeant frantically waves him into silence.

"You don't have to say a word," the sergeant explains, "until you have seen a lawyer."

This may be good cartooning. But it is bad law. The sergeant has no obligation to interrupt a confession that is offered voluntarily. Furthermore, the man's statement may be used against him in court.

Consider an actual case: A motorcycle officer signaled a motorist to the curb and asked to see his driver's license and registration slip. After a moment's hesitation, the man shrugged.

"Well, I guess you've got me," he said. "I stole the car."

Brought to trial later for car theft, he claimed that his confession could not be used against him because the officer had failed to warn him of his rights.

But the court found nothing wrong with the confession, since the man had made it of his own free will.

What kind of pressures do taint a confession as "involuntary"? Hence inadmissible in court? Obvious examples are the use of physical violence or mental intimidation. Such methods run afoul of the constitutional privilege against self-incrimination.

But a confession may also be ruled out because it was obtained by the unfair use of promises or temptations.

In one case, a man under questioning about a robbery was informed that his wife—also being held—would be released if he would confess he had committed the crime.

He did confess. But this time, his confession was held to be inadmissible in court. The judge said a confession obtained by offering such a powerful temptation had one great drawback in the eyes of the law:

It was all too ready to be false.

Mosquito Control Underway At MTF

Fifty-four different species of mosquito are present in the 141,900 acres comprising the fee simple and acoustical buffer zones of NASA's Mississippi Test Facility and its surrounding area.

Of these mosquito species, some are potential carriers of encephalitis, a disease that in 1947 killed 14,000 horses in Louisiana alone. Breaking out again last year, 1971, encephalitis almost reached similar epidemic proportions before being brought under control.

Always a threat, the mosquitoes are held in check inside the MTF area by the efforts of a government-industry-community team operating in both the site and the adjacent communities.

The operations agreements covering this tri-party pact were reaffirmed recently in a $50,400 boost from NASA to the mosquito suppression activities of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Mosquito Control Commission (MGMCC) and the St. Tammany Parish Mosquito Abatement District No. 2.

Signed for NASA-MTF by W.C. Poe, contracts manager for Global Associates, the site operating contractor, this annually renewable agreement carries an effective date of July 12.

Chris Elmore, director, MGMCC, described his $35,600 contract as being of great benefit to all three coastal counties.

BASIC TRAINING

Private Andrew H. Nash, 23, son of Mrs. Louise C. Nash, 414 Washington St., Bay St. Louis, recently completed eight weeks of basic training at Ft. Jackson, S.C.

He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Pvt. Nash received his training in Company B, 6th Battalion, 2nd Brigade.

A 1967 graduate of St. Rose De Lima High School, he received his B.A. Degree in 1971 from Dillard University, New Orleans, La.

His wife, Tamara, lives at 12913 McKinley Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

COMPLETES SCHOOL

Marine Pfc. Victor H. Schwartz Jr., son of Mr. Victor H. Schwartz Sr. of 311 Union St., Bay St. Louis, has completed the Aviation Structural Mechanic School at Memphis. Marine Aviation Structural Mechanics maintain hydraulic systems, fuselages and wings aboard naval aircraft.

SPECIAL OPERATION

Navy Fireman Andre B. Lizana, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew B. Lizana of 451 Webster St., Bay Saint Louis participated in a special Sixth Fleet operation in the Mediterranean aboard the aircraft carrier USS John F. Kennedy.

maintenance program. The equipment, such as draglines, trucks and the like, is utilized in marsh and swamp drainage work and ditch clearing.

In St. Tammany Parish, Wards 8 and 9, the main mosquito breeding areas are in brackish waters associated with swamps and marshland.

Covering 250 square miles, the district offers quite a challenge to Director Riche. "It would be extremely difficult to achieve the required level of control against mosquitoes in this parish without this contract," he said.

Riche said his entire budget was only $35,000, plus the savings realized on borrowed government equipment.

"We are elated with this NASA contract as it enables us to undertake jobs we otherwise would not be able to tackle."

"In this parish we have to devote considerable ground and aerial surveillance time to the swamp and marsh areas having a tendency to generate the brackish water conditions ideally suited to mosquito breeding requirement," the director explained.

While the agreement calls for concentration on those areas of St. Tammany Parish immediately surrounding the MTF buffer zone, it also spells out the necessity to exercise control over the adjacent areas in the parish to prevent infestation.

"In helping our efforts in Wards 8 and 9, NASA is providing benefits to the entire parish," Riche said.

CLUB OUTING

Members of Aunt Jane's Letter Club prior to 1959 in the Gulf Coast area should notify Mrs. Acel Ross Pullen, general chairman of Jane's 59ers Social Club, 420 Carondelet Building, New Orleans, La. 70130, if they are interested in attending the annual all-day outing on August 27, 1972, at Moneyhill Plantation, between Abita Springs and Tallahassee.

Facilities for swimming, fishing, sailing, camping, boating are available. Bring a basket lunch, horseshoes and other games.

Under the contract terms the mosquito control commissions are also the recipients of surplus government property on a loan basis. Although such equipment loan is made without charge, the control personnel are responsible for providing operators and continuing

Capacity/floatation certified by Boating Industry Association

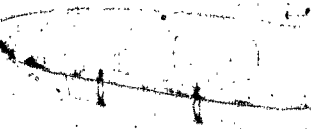

Most fishing boats have foam flotation under the seats. The Super Gamefisher is actually made of flotation material. 25 times the amount required by the Boating Industry Association for a boat this size. Much of the flotation material is concentrated in the gunwales so the boat floats upright, even if completely swamped with water and with a full load and outboard motor. The foam core combined with the rugged ABS "skin" gives tremendous resistance to puncture. It's the same tough plastic used for pro football helmets... and all these safety features are built into a modified semi-v-hull design that gives great stability, even in open, rough water.

The smooth light green inner hull and white outer hull are molded together so there are no seams, crevices or rivets to leak or require maintenance. For greater safety, the child-resistant floor is molded in, too, not just painted on. Boat has built-in carrying handles fore and aft and weighs only 125 pounds, so two men can car-top it with ease. Electric trolling motor mount molded into bow. Two trolling rod holders, two insulated storage compartments for bait, refrigerator, catch. Two beverage can holders and rod storage grooves molded into child-resistant seat. Built in car socket. Rated for 3 people, 15-HP motor, capacity 600 pounds. Flotation, capacity certified by Boating Industry Association. Order accessories at right. 6 VM 6010H—Shipping weight 140 pounds. $275.00

IMPORTANT NOTE: If you order a boat from Sears and are not a United States citizen, please state country of citizenship on order.
